

Contents

Preface .....	vii
Acknowledgements .....	xi
Contributors .....	xiii
Glossary .....	xix
Introduction .....	xxv
Part 1 The basics	1
<hr/>
1 Health information: an overview .....	3
Peter Morgan and Paula Younger
2 Web 2.0 in healthcare information: an overview .....	9
Paula Younger
Part 2 Web 2.0 and the implications for health information	27
<hr/>
3 Emerging technologies in health, medical and nursing education .....	29
Patricia Anderson
4 Supporting learners via Web 2.0 .....	53
Laura Cobus-Kuo
5 Supporting research .....	67
Chris Mavergames
6 Crowdsourcing: the identification of content suitable for the developing world .....	73
Jon Brassey
7 Supporting patient needs: an overview of the potential role of Web 2.0 in patient and consumer information .....	79
Paula Younger

8 Some ethical and legal considerations in the use of Web 2.0.....	85
Peter Morgan
Part 3 Web applications in health information provision: some practical examples	93
<hr/>
9 Web 2.0 in health libraries .....	95
Pip Divall
10 RSS (Really Simple Syndication): helping faculty and residents stay up to date.....	107
Thane Chambers, Dale Storie and Sandy Campbell
11 Using mashups in health information provision.....	115
Jukka Englund
12 Twitter in a hospital library.....	121
Hannah Prince
13 Using Web 2.0 to facilitate staff development.....	131
Andrew Booth, Anthea Sutton and Andy Tattersall
Part 4 The future	139
<hr/>
14 Web 3.0 and health librarians: what does the future hold?.....	141
Allan Cho and Dean Giustini
15 Conclusion .....	153
Paula Younger
Index .....	157